Journal-Herald tour caused me to decide to come by auto. We have not definitely decided on our route from Atlanta to Gainesville, but if the roads for the remaining distance are in as good shape as from New York to Atlanta we will reach our destination with little trouble."—Atlanta Journal, 18th.

The Sun representative, learning that the above party was stopping at the White House Saturday, went to that hostelry, but was informed that the party left early Saturday morning for Mt. Dora, where they have a winter home. The same party came through Gainesville last winter, making the trip from this city to Mt. Dora by auto.

The party came as far as Macon, Ga., in their machine, from whence it was shipped to Gainesville by express, the party coming by train, reaching Gainesville Friday night via Tampa and Jacksonville railway, and leaving early the following morning by auto for their South Florida home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fuller of Mt. Kesco, N. Y., who also own a winter home at Mt. Dora, passed through this city about ten days ago in their machine en route to South Florida.

Standard Oil Co. Will Not Go Out of Business

YORK, Nov. 22.—Mortimer general counsel for the Standard Oil Company, said yesterday, following for the first time on against the company owned by the United States at St. Paul:

was asked what course would adopt if the ver- the lower court should be up- the higher court.

said, "Is something I shall be better prepared to discuss when I have seen the opinion by which the United States Circuit Court justifies its decree."

Henry Wollman, who represented the attorney-general of Missouri in that State's suit against the Standard Oil Company and conducted the examination in New York of officers of the company, takes a view similar to that expressed by Mr. Elliott. He sums up the situation as a "theoretical victory." "I cannot see," he said, "that any practical effect is to be expected. It seems as if the best the Government can do is to order the sale of the property, and in that case the money, of course, goes to the present stockholders in some form or another. There is no confiscation, no punishment, as there would be in the cases of criminal proceedings, with the imposition of a big fine."

"The case seems to be very similar to that of the coal roads, which were forced to separate from their coal business, and it is difficult to see, even if the decision is upheld by the Supreme Court, how the Government can prevent the control of Standard Oil properties remaining in the same hands, even if it is split up into its constituent properties. This has been the case in every suit in the past in which the law has compelled the dissolution of combinations. They have simply been put into different shape, and have gone along more compactly than ever."

EVERYTHING IS READY FOR AUTOISTS

PARTICIPANTS IN ENDURANCE RUN EXPECTED TODAY.

Will Arrive Late This Afternoon, Coming Down Liberty Street—Will Remain Here Tonight.

As the time draws near for the great endurance run, which will leave Tampa this morning under the auspices of the Tampa Automobile Club, interest and enthusiasm is waxing warm in Gainesville, and when the long procession of autoists roll along West Liberty street this afternoon, the autoists will no doubt be greeted with one of the largest and most enthusiastic crowds ever seen in Gainesville. The party will probably arrive about 4:30 o'clock, and will spend the night here, leaving for Jacksonville early tomorrow morning.

Through the efforts of the Gainesville Automobile Association, the road from the Marion to the Bradford county lines has been posted at intervals of one mile, and the highway has been put in good condition for the autoists.

No sporting event of recent date has created so much enthusiasm in this city, and in fact all along the proposed route, both on the West and East coasts, as this anticipated endurance run, which was conceived through the energy of The Tampa Daily Times, and will be carried out under the auspices of the Tampa Auto Association, and the race has been advertised widely through both sources. It is not known yet just how many contestants there will be, but it has been stated that a great many machines have been entered, and the achievements of the various machines in competition will be watched with a keen interest, both as to time and durability. The contest will include many machines of high standard, and this trip, which will include a run of something over five hundred miles, will test the endurance qualities of the various machines.

Owing to the long run from Tampa to Jacksonville and return, as has been decided upon by the managers of the event, no entries have been made from Gainesville. In order to enter the race it would have been necessary for owners of autos in this city to drive their machines to Tampa, thence over the proposed route and back to Gainesville, entailing an additional run of nearly four hundred miles, almost equally the mileage of the official route. Owners of machines here would have entered if the route had been merely Tampa to Jacksonville, but they considered the extra run too tiring and too hard on the machines.

Will Be Royally Entertained.

But the people of Gainesville will do their share towards extending the autoists a hospitable greeting, and will take care of them in royal manner while in the city. The visitors will make their headquarters at the White House, and will be entertained at the evening meal with an elaborate menu, specially prepared for the occasion. Members of the Gainesville Automobile Club and other prominent citizens will be present, and it is understood that Judge Syd L. Carter will make an address.

A. M. Cushman received a letter Saturday requesting that he attend to the matter of securing accommodation for the party, providing supper, lodging and breakfast, while George I. Doig will arrange to "check in" and take care of the machines.

Everything is in readiness for the arrival of the party, and it is hoped that our citizens will turn out en masse to greet the only event of the kind ever seen here, but which will be by no means the last.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE T. & J. RAILROAD

Interesting Session, at Which Officers for Year Were Elected---A. L. Glass Promoted.

The annual meeting of the Tampa and Jacksonville Railway Company was held Saturday afternoon in the general offices of the company in this city.

There were present A. P. Stuckey of Ocala, president; B. W. Blount, Jacksonville, vice-president; F. M. Simonton, Tampa, secretary; J. B. Munson, Macon, Ga., A. deSola Mendes, Savannah, Ga., and A. L. Glass, general superintendent of the road, with headquarters in this city.

During the meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

A. P. Stuckey, president; A. deSola Mendes, first vice-president; B. W. Blount, second vice-president; F. M. Simonton, secretary; H. E. Taylor, treasurer; A. L. Glass, promoted from general superintendent, which office was abolished, to general manager.

It is learned that the election of Mr. Mendes as first vice-president is the result of recent negotiations in New York, under which some of the bonds of the company were sold, and an option taken on the balance, which will be exercised if the company is enabled to make a sufficiently good showing during the next six months.

The success of this company's efforts to finance its needs and contemplated extensions to either Dunnellon or Ocala, depends a great deal upon the support which the people in this section will give in the way of favoring them with all possible traffic. It is hoped that the merchants of Gainesville who have not shown much disposition in the past to help this local enterprise which, with their assistance, could be developed into a through line to Tampa, traversing a territory in agriculture, phosphate and timber, will see fit by liberal patronage to make possible these results, which will be of incalculable value to the country.

During the past administration the service on this road has been admittedly poor; but during the past two years, under the able management of A. L. Glass, general superintendent, a considerable change for the better has been noted, and we are glad to see this good work on the part of Mr. Glass recognized by his promotion to be general manager.

Work of Removing Dead Miners Goes Bravely On

CHERRY, Ill., Nov. 22.—Hope aroused Saturday by the rescue alive of twenty entombed men from the St. Paul mine just one week after the starting of the fatal fire, was crushed yesterday, for not one more of the 319 men caught by the fire was found.

The day was spent in removing bodies and in burying the corpses heretofore recovered. Last night the records showed that of the 319 men left in the mine last Saturday night, 198 are still missing, while ninety-two bodies have been found and twenty men rescued alive.

The fire that broke out afresh Saturday night was smothered yesterday and explorers were able to work in the mine, but black damp in one of the galleries defied the men as did cave-ins and other debris.

It was not even discovered whether there are more alive in the mine galleries, although the explorers work with almost superhuman strength and rapidly.

Although thirty-seven bodies were found, they were not removed from the mine because of the morbid crowd at the mine entrance. After the spectators had been thinned by darkness, ten bodies found in another place were taken out of the mine. This was the only visible results of yesterday's endeavors.

All day long the tolling of church bells resounded in Cherry and Spring Valley. Eighteen bodies were buried in a field south of Cherry. At the mine a dozen victims in coffins awaited removal, while a score of coffins were piled nearby for others that might be brought to the surface.

From the yet unfilled graves in which the Roman Catholic dead were placed the priests hurried to the mine entrance to administer the last rites to any dying man that might be brought up.

It was declared yesterday that the assertion made Saturday that 150 live men had been discovered was not well founded. Each hour that passes now is looked on as making the chances of escape pitifully less.

The rescuers work with this knowledge. The fire in the second level was forced back so that early in the afternoon the workers could pass it. But the black damp in the east gallery proved insurmountable for a long time.

Through this gallery the bodies of thirty-seven men could be seen. Preparations for the taking out of these bodies were rushed when the morbid throng about the mine had thinned and the black damp had been overcome.

In the mine levels the work of the explorers went on unceasingly. Relays of eager miners succeeded those whose strength failed. Those who staggered from the pit mouth were surrounded instantly and a babel of questions was hurled at them.

"We can see the bodies. There are piles of them. They're dead, boys; all dead," was the reply of the first, and those who followed gave no more cheering answers. "But they could be living back there; they could be alive, couldn't they?" asked a relative of a miner still entombed.

"No chance," began the miner, then paused as he saw the trembling hands of the old man who had pressed to his side. "Why, sure," he added, hastily. "Didn't the others come out?"

Among those who still hope for the rescue of living miners is Richard Newsum, president of the Illinois Board of Mine Inspectors.

"Scotchmen are the most resourceful miners in the world and there are twenty-two of them down there yet. I can see no reason why they should not have found some refuge just as did those who were found alive Saturday. Eight days have passed, however, and we must hurry if they are not to perish of thirst and starvation. Everything possible to hurry on the work of exploration is doing."

A DEEP INTEREST IN BIG REVIVAL

GOOD CROWDS ATTENDING SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH.

Dr. Christian Delivered Two Forceful Sermons Sunday—Stores Closing for Morning Service.

Immense congregations attended the services at the First Methodist church on Sunday, and profound impressions were made. Dr. Christian was at his best. Possibly greater sermons have never been preached in this city.

The pastors of the Presbyterian and Baptist churches were on the platform at the evening service, which added to the interest of the occasion.

Yesterday morning Dr. Christian's subject was "The Dividing Line." The preacher pointed out the line in such clear light that everyone could see it, and every member of that large congregation must have gone away asking the question, "Am I on the right side of that line?"

Last night another large crowd attended the service and the preacher preached with great power.

If the business men of the city fail to show Dr. Christian high appreciation of this sermon, your reporter will be disappointed.

Services every day this week at 9:30 a. m. and 7 p. m., and all the people are urged to attend.

Stores Closing.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to close our places of business from 9:25 to 10:30 every morning this week with the exception of Saturday, in order that we and our employees may attend the special revival services at the Methodist church: L. J. Burkhim, L. C. Smith, C. H. Coles & Son, J. G. Dedge, Mrs. S. W. LeGrande, D. Edelstein, J. S. Bodiford, L. A. Jernigan & Son, E. K. Fagan, W. M. Edelstein.

The above is self explanatory. Other names will be added as they are seen. Customers are urged to send in their orders so as not to interfere with this arrangement. It is hoped that all the people will show appreciation of this courtesy to the cause of Christ on the part of these business men.

THE TRAIN WAS LATE.

Went "Dead" at Gracy's Mill and Made Passengers Impatient.

Train No. 39, Jacksonville to St. Petersburg over the Atlantic Coast Line, due to arrive in Gainesville at 12:30 p. m., leaving at 12:50, went "dead" on the curve at Gracy's siding Monday, with the result that there was a large number of people, both aboard the train and waiting here, who became impatient. The train was delayed two hours and forty-five minutes, reaching Gainesville at 3:15 p. m.

The delay was caused by the blowing out, or bursting, of a flue in the boiler of Engine 13, which as a rule is a mighty faithful servant. There being no telegraph station between this point and Burnett's Lake, the railroad officials became a little uneasy and dispatched another engine after the disabled train.

L. J. Burkhim Will Give Handsome Sweater to Some Autoist Today.

With commendable enterprise, L. J. Burkhim, the clothier and haberdasher, announces that he will present to the first automobile which arrives on the Tampa-Tampa endurance run today a fine sweater coat.

This act on the part of Mr. Burkhim is to be commended, and the winner will no doubt appreciate the gift.

McINTOSH—ROBERTSON.

Two Popular Young People Will Be Married at Noon Wednesday.

One of the interesting society events of the season, and an event which is being anticipated with a great deal of pleasure by the young people, is the marriage of Mr. Fulwood McIntosh and Miss Gertrude Robertson, which will be solemnized at the First Methodist church in this city at high noon Wednesday, the 24th inst., Rev. F. R. Bridges officiating.

The contracting parties are both well known and popular in this city. The groom is the efficient head bookkeeper at the banking house of Phifer Bros., where he is held in highest esteem by his employers.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. W. H. Robertson, and enjoys the friendship of a large circle of young people, among whom she is a social favorite. To the happy pair congratulations of friends are extended in advance.

A Monticello Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Chesnut and James Chesnut left Monday for Monticello, where they will attend the wedding today of Mrs. J. Alwyn Ball of Charleston, S. C., and Miss Elizabeth Budd, which will be solemnized at the Methodist church in Monticello tonight.

James Chesnut, who is a friend of the groom, will act as best man, or groom's attendant.

The bride is well known here, having visited relatives upon various occasions. She is related to Evans and Mrs. Rachael Halle, and was a general favorite among the young society people here.

Newcomb's Definition of "Magnet."

Personally Newcomb was an agreeable companion and a faithful friend. His success was due largely to his tenacity of purpose. The writer's only personal contact with him came through the Standard Dictionary, of whose definitions in physical science Newcomb had general oversight. On one occasion he came into the office greatly dissatisfied with the definition that we had framed for the word "magnet"—a conception almost impossible to define in any logical way. We had simply enumerated the properties of the thing, a course which in the absence of authoritative knowledge of their causes was the only rational procedure. But Newcomb's mind demanded a logical treatment, and, though he must have seen from the outset that this was a forlorn hope, his tenacity of purpose kept him, pencil in hand, writing and erasing alternately for an hour or more. Finally he confessed that he could do no better than the following pair of definitions: "Magnet, a body capable of exerting magnetic force," and "magnetic force, the force exerted by a magnet." With a hearty laugh at his beautiful circus in definition he threw down his pencil, and the imperfect and illogical office definition was accepted.—North American Review.

Old Time Quackery.

The eighteenth century was the golden harvest time of the quack, against whom some of the fiercest shafts of Hogarth's satire were directed. The quack loved to surround himself with an atmosphere of mystery, which was calculated to impose upon the credulity of his victims. His room was bedecked with skulls and skeletons. A brisk trade in quackery was carried on by women. J. C. Wright in his book, "The Good Old Times," records the fact that in the year 1789 "a Mrs. Joanna Stephens was awarded £5,000 by the English government for a proper discovery made by her for the cure of the stone." This "proper discovery," adds Mr. Wright, "consisted of a powder, a decoction and pills, the last named being formed from calcined snails, with carrot seeds, hips and haws, the compound being burnt to blackness and then mixed with soap and honey."

For Feverishness and Aching Whether from Malarious conditions, colds or overeating, try Hicks' Capidine. It reduces the fever and relieves the aching. It's liquid—10, 25 and 50 cents at drug stores.

ONE LESS BALD HEAD.

If You Are Losing Your Hair Read
This Interesting Letter.

Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
Dear Sirs—"I was told of your great remedy, Parisian Sage, that it would grow hair on bald heads, so I got a bottle and tried it and it is fine. I am a young man and only twenty-five, and was completely bald on the top of my head and now I have hair one inch long with the use of only one bottle. I only wish I could have shown you my photo before the hair started to grow and how it is now. I shall certainly keep on using it until I have a good head of hair, which I have no doubt it will bring." Oscar Armstrong,
Engineer, Belleville Horse Shoe &
Rolling Mill Co., Belleville, Ont., Aug.
21, 1909.

To every reader of The Sun the American makers of Parisian Sage wish to emphatically state that they do not guarantee Parisian Sage to grow hair on bald heads, because in the great majority of cases the hair roots are absolutely dead and not even the wonderful virtue of Parisian Sage can resurrect them.

Mr. Armstrong started to use Parisian Sage in time, before the hair root was entirely dead and in such a case there is no good reason why Parisian
Sage should not restore his hair.

W. M. Johnson guarantees Parisian Sage to remove every trace of dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back, but he does not guarantee it to grow hair on bald heads.

Sold by leading druggists all over

Mr. Patton states that the owners

Zion City, another tract adjoining

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

The Sun cannot guarantee the insertion of advertisements in the Sunday issue unless the copy is handed in early Friday morning. This also applies to changes in advertisements already running in the paper.

The State ought to pay the premiums won by exhibitors at the State Fair held at Tampa. These premiums were guaranteed by act of the Legislature, and the exhibits were made by many persons at an expense which they otherwise would not have incurred.

If Ex-Governor Broward has not entirely forsaken his erstwhile habit of instituting suits for libel against newspaper men who see fit to criticize his official acts, our friend Albert Williamson, of The Jacksonville Floridian, may as well retain a lawyer to defend such a suit. The last issue of The Floridian certainly hit the Ex-Governor some sledge-hammer blows.

The many friends of Hon. James E. Broome of Quincy will be pleased to learn that his health has so far improved that he has consented to again serve the people of Gadsden county in the State Senate. No matter how much one may differ with Jim Broome at times regarding matters of legislation, the honesty of motive which actuates him in the position he assumes is never questioned. We love Jim Broome for his many noble qualities, and a purer man never served his people in an official capacity.

Manager Gillette of the Florida Fruit Exchange, like some politicians we could name, "put his foot in it" when he asserted that most of the newspapers had been "bought up." There was no excuse for such an assertion on the part of Mr. Gillette, and he made a bad break when he penned the words. The Florida editors have no reason to be especially friendly to the Northern commission merchants, and simply because some of them criticized the management of the Fruit Exchange gave no excuse for such an insult to the press in general. If Manager Gillette cannot stand a little criticism without "losing his head," as he has recently, the sooner he is deposed the better it will be for the Exchange.

Pate Sims, the High Springs lad who was convicted of beating his way on a railroad train, was released by Judge Wills pending good behavior. Pate is only eighteen years old, and has probably figured in court circles more than any boy of his age in Florida, though his only conviction prior to the recent term of court was for vagrancy, for which he served three months. Pate is not a bad boy in appearance, and it is to be hoped that he will not abuse the trust reposed in him by the kind-hearted Judge. Sheriff Ramsey paid the boy's railroad fare to Fivay, where his father resides, and if he again gets into trouble he need not expect any leniency at the hands of court officials. The Sun hopes that Pate will "make good." He is a bright lad, and it is probable that evil minded associates are more responsible for his past actions than anything else.

BE CHARITABLE.

Simply because he sees fit to advocate local option instead of State-wide prohibition, a few Florida editors have referred to John Trice's new paper, "Florida," as the "whiskey organ," and otherwise berated that excellent publication. We fail to see how Mr. Trice's paper is any more of a "whiskey organ" than The Times-Union, Tampa Tribune and other papers opposed to State-wide prohibition. He is advocating what he deems to be for the best interests of the whole State the same thing that the framers of our constitution incorporated into the organic law, and the same thing that was overwhelmingly endorsed by the people in the nomination and election of Albert W. Gilchrist as Governor. Some of our temperance friends hug to themselves the idea that all is evil in the man who opposes State-wide prohibition and advocates local option (or home rule) in lieu thereof. In this they are mistaken. Some of the best and purest men in Florida are honestly and conscientiously opposed to State-wide prohibition because they do not believe it to be the best thing for the State. It is nothing less than a farce in Georgia, they say, especially so far as Savannah and other places are concerned, and they contend that the same conditions would prevail in Jacksonville, Tampa, Pensacola and other places in Florida, where public sentiment is opposed to the prohibition law.

Temperance people are not all prohibitionists, by any means. Take Lafayette county, which recently voted to again license the sale of liquor. Few, if any, negroes voted in that election, and the county was voted wet by a majority of the white people. Can the prohibitionists truthfully say that some of those who favored the license system are not just as honest and upright citizens as those who favored the prohibition side?

The contest for State-wide prohibition of the liquor traffic is not going to be won by a browbeating and bullying campaign, for the people stamped their disapproval upon such tactics in the contest between Gilchrist and Stockton. The prohibitionists have got to wage a campaign for reason and logic, and not depend too much upon appealing to sentiment, as they have in the past. Sentiment does not last long with the man who is "shown" that his taxes will be considerably increased by the adoption of State-wide prohibition, and that is just what those opposed to prohibition are going to endeavor to do.

Throw off that "holier than thou" spirit, and at least give some people credit for being as honest as yourself, though they may not agree with you on public questions.

BONDING FOR HARD ROADS.

The News is in favor of bonding Volusia county for the purpose of building hardroads. Because: Bonding gives us the money for immediate use and allows us to pay it back while we are getting the use of the roads for which the money is spent.

But before we agree to support any bonding proposition, several things must be settled.

First—By whom is the money to be spent?

Second—How is the money to be spent? (What roads are to be improved and what material is to be used?)

Third—For many years the people of Volusia county have been heavily taxed and the money spent on roads. A road would be improved one year and abandoned for another route the year following. This is all right for a small man—a man may have to put up with a small engine this year, knowing that he needs a large and more expensive one to do the best work. He may have to buy the cheaper piece of machinery, use it a year or two, then discard it for a better machine. It is the same in a city, a county or a State. But our roads have in the past been built haphazard, wherever and whenever a member of the board of county commissioners listed. The time has come when we must build permanently and with a view to the future. Good roads are no longer an experiment—they are a necessity to a civilized community.

Before a bond issue is submitted, an experienced civil engineer should be employed, and he, with the board, should map out a permanent system of roads ramifying the county. It may not—it probably will not—be possible to build all the roads at once, or within the next five or ten years; but the plan should be drawn to meet future needs for many years to come. There also should be main lines of roads, built of the very best material, that will last for generations, or at least until the bonds are paid for; there should be laterals, running from the main roads, built of a cheaper grade of material; there should be a third and even a fourth grade, connecting the smaller settlements—and thus benefiting the greatest possible number of people.

At an expense of about $100,000, we have built a road across the county that is today barely more than a streak of dust and holes. It is going to ruin for the want of proper attention. The commissioners state that there is no money available with which to make repairs. If we cannot care for $100,000 worth of shell road, what will we do when we add $250,000 worth of roads to our present troubles?

There is considerable doubt in the minds of many of our largest taxpayers as to the advisability of building more shell roads. Counties like Duval and Hillsborough have abandoned them as too expensive to maintain. Shall Volusia county continue to build more shell roads, and let them go to ruin after they are built?

Before we bond for $250,000, or any other amount, it will be best for us to determine just how much we shall want, and what we are going to do with it after we get it.—DeLand News.

The Sun has been giving the question of bonding Alachua county for the construction of good roads some consideration for the past few months. Like The News, we favor bonding for this purpose, but we want to know where the roads are to be built, what material is to be used, by whom the money is to be spent, etc. In fact, The News expresses exactly what has been revolving in our mind for some time. We believe a bond issue could be engineered in such a way as to give us two hundred miles or more of hard roads without increasing the present rate of taxation a single penny, but like The News, we have "got to be shown" before The Sun will agree to support such a bond issue.

Our columns are open to a discussion of the subject, and we invite communications along this line.

LIFE ISN'T WORTH LIVING

When This Statement is Made It May Be Generally Attributed to the Lack of Good Health.

We want to talk to people who are nervous, who suffer frequent headaches, who don't enjoy their food, who are irritable, quickly lose their temper, who are so exhausted that they feel they must give up, and have become so despondent that life doesn't seem worth living. We believe we know what is the matter with these people in this condition, and if they will follow our advice we can tell them how to regain good health and that buoyancy of feeling which makes life seem surrounded with happiness and sunshine.

Most of the above described conditions are chiefly caused by what is commonly called catarrh, a "below par" condition of mucous membranes. This delicate lining of certain of the body cavities becomes weakened, inflamed and congested until the whole system is weakened, mental depression ensuing as one of the results. The wise way to overcome this condition is through a treatment of the general system. We have the treatment, and we are so positive it will produce the results we claim for it that we will supply it to anyone with the understanding that we will return to them every penny paid us in every instance where the treatment is not in every way satisfactory and beneficial to them.

We want you to try Rexall Muc-Tone, which is a scientifically devised alternative tonic and body builder, its action being to aid the body in its effort to re-establish the natural and healthy functions of the mucous membranes.

Rexall Muc-Tone thus acts to expel the "catarrhal poison," restore the mucous cells to good health, tone up the whole body, allay inflammation, remove congestion and stimulate the system to healthy activity. It is splendid for aiding in the building up of flesh and muscle tissue and removing weaknesses.

Come to our store and get a bottle of Muc-Tone, and after giving it a reasonable trial, if you are not satisfied, simply tell us so, and we will hand back your money without question. Surely nothing could be more fair than this. Rexall Muc-Tone comes in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Gainesville only at our store—The Rexall Store. J. W. Keystone Park is a progressive colony. People who have bought farms and groves there are arriving from the North in numbers, and already arranging to begin clearing and improving their lands. A number of the settlers are also having homes erected.

Thugs, supposed to be traveling along with the Barnum and Bailey circus, set upon and beat Ex-Policeman W. N. Nesmith of Pensacola so badly last week that he had to be taken to the hospital. He was bruised about the neck and face dreadfully, and it is feared has a fractured skull.

A. T. Lewis, a young white man whom it is claimed is one of the leaders of a gang which followed the Barnum and Bailey shows away from Pensacola, is held at the police station there on the charge of picking the pockets of some two dozen people. Diamond pins and rings were found secreted on his person, while watches and other jewelry were found about him. He stoutly denies that he committed any crime.

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulets, and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulets bring easy, regular passages of the bowels.

HOWE'S GREAT LONDON SHOWS.

Memories of Youth Awakened—Our Girls and Boys Just Like Their Parents Were.

There is nothing more pathetic on earth than the urchin who stands outside of the big tent, views his companions blithely pass before him to enter paradise, while all the time the hideous consciousness is his that he has not been able to muster the price of admission. He may grow up later to be a great and good man, and become President of the United States, but he does not care for that now—he would give all his chances in this world for the possession of the little slip of cardboard which would put him face to face with the gleesome, fleasome baboon. If you meet any such wistful hangers-on at the outer pale of the Land of Heart's Desire, and are moved by the memories of your youth to pass him in, you will do a better deed than if you found him hungry in the street and fed him, for he will digest the meal and need another before long, but a circus is worth missing many meals to see.

So go to the circus, and don't be so ashamed of wanting to go that you make the excuse that you are just going to take care of the children. Admit that you like it. Go and eat peanuts, and laugh at the clown and feel young and happy again. The clown is another test. He will be, to all intents and purposes, the first clown that you ever saw; and he will have the same jokes; but if you attend in the proper spirit, you will laugh in the same old places. The clown is not meant to minister to your sense of humor; his is the highest function of testing the degree of youth which you retain.

THE TRUE BLUEBEARD

He Was a Cruelly and Malevolently Malignant Frenchman.

NOT A MURDEROUS MONSTER.

He Had Matrimonial Misfortunes, It Is True, but He Seems to Have Been the Only One Who Came to Grief on Account of Them—His Tragic End.

The supposedly detestable Bluebeard, the monster of murderous polygamy, the very name of the ogre into whose mouth one used, if one could, in childhood's happy hour, to throw india rubber balls, was in truth a man who has been as cruelly and malevolently maligned by history as Nero, Richard III., Macbeth, tutti quanti. So says M. Anatole France—and pray who can speak with higher authority on the real facts of fairy?—in "Les Sept Femmes de la Barbe-Bleue et Autres Contes Merveilleux." One knew already that Charles Perrault first wrote, in about 1690, the historical biography of Bluebeard, but one did not know until now how deeply Perrault, probably through false information, wronged the memory of an excellent and ill-treated personage. From M. France we learn that M. Bernard de Montragoux, of old and noble descent, lived in 1650 or thereabouts at the ancestral Chateau Les Gailliettes, on his estates between Compiègne and Pierrefonds. The castle, of frowning outward aspect, was inside a treasure house of taste and wealth. Its owner, contrary to long existing tradition, wore no beard, only a mustache and a little tuft below the lower lip. He was known through the countryside as Bluebeard because his hair was very black, and therefore his close shaven cheeks and chin were markedly blue. He was a fine figure of a man who, in spite of his manifest advantages as a good match, did not get on well with women of his own rank in life. This was due to an incurable shyness on his part. Pleasant and pretty girls who had been well brought up attracted him immensely, but also filled him with an indescribable terror.

The first notable result of this affliction was that the unfortunate orphan, for such he had been since his early youth, incapable of making proposals for the hand of any of the attractive and high born ladies in the neighborhood, married a certain Colette Passage, a fascinating girl in her way, against whose character nothing seems known, who was going round the country with a dancing bear. Things went well enough for a few months, and then Colette, who had at first revelled in being a lady of quality, began to long for her old freedom. The longing became irresistible, and at last she took her departure secretly with her justly beloved bear. It is noteworthy that they made their escape by way of a room that had a door leading to what had been water meadows, and so to open country. Perrault called this room "le petit cabinet," but it was also known as "the wretched princesses' room," because a Florentine painter had covered its walls with the most lifelike figures of Cleo, Nobe and Procris. The tragic effect of these paintings was enhanced by the porphyry flooring of the room, which suggested bloodstains.

Montragoux appeared inconsolable at the disappearance, which was complete, of Colette, his first wife, and doubtless his lot would have been far less unhappy if he had never tried to console himself. This, most unfortunately, he did by marrying one Jeanne de la Cloche, who turned out to be a violent dipsomaniac. Bluebeard was of a nature so kindly and noble that, although in a fit of mad passion she nearly killed him with a kitchen knife, he continually hoped to reclaim her by kindness. But one day she strayed into the generally shut up princesses' room, took the painted figures for real people and was so terrified that she rushed wildly into the open fields, tumbled into a deep pool, and so was drowned.

So things went on, a new affliction with each new wife, and in each case the final catastrophe was associated with the princesses' room. The climax to the unhappy career of the more than worthy and lovable Bernard de Montragoux came with his seventh wife, Jeanne de Lespoisse, cleverest and most fascinating of a family of utterly unscrupulous adventurers. No one knew anything about the supposed late husband of the mother. Of the two brothers, a dragoon and a musketeer, one was a low rascal and a mere sponge; the other lived on gaming and on the good nature of women to whom he made love. Anne, the sister, was the incarnation of malicious cunning. Associated with this precious family was a certain Chevalier de Merlus, who had a great deal to do with the final tragedy of M. de Montragoux's career. The nature of this tragedy may be inferred, but it is curious that, while Perrault represented Bluebeard as taking a journey in order to lay a trap for his wife, the fact was exactly opposite. Both before and after his marriage he had heaped benefits on all these wretches. When he was obliged to go away in the matter of an inheritance he gave all his keys without reserve to his wife, warning her out of pure love against the unhappy associations of the princesses' room. As soon as he was out of the way a trap was laid for him, and it was in that very room that he was most treacherously assassinated. The worst and the best of it was that M. de Merlus, after marrying the wealthy widow, became an exemplary husband and subject of the king.

Women Suffer Agonies from Diseased Kidneys

And Most Women Do This Not Knowing the Real Cause of their Condition

These poor, suffering women have been led to believe that their misery of mind and body is entirely due to "ills of their sex." Usually the kidneys and bladder are responsible—or largely so. And in such cases, the kidneys and bladder are the organs, that need and must have attention.

Those torturing, enervating sick headaches, dragging pains in back, groin and limbs, bloating and swelling of the extremities, extreme nervousness or hysteria, listlessness and constant tired, worn-out feeling—are almost certain symptoms of diseased and diseased kidneys, bladder and liver.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills have, in thousands of cases, been demonstrated as remarkably beneficial in all such conditions of female organism—affording the most prompt relief and permanent benefit.

As an illustration of what these Pills will do, Mrs. P. M. Bray of Columbus, Ga., writes that she was very ill with kidney trouble, and that she is now well—and that these Pills are what cured her.

They are very pleasant to take, and can in no case, produce any deleterious effects upon the system—as syrupy, alcoholic, liquid preparations are apt to do.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill., want every man and woman who have the least suspicion that they are afflicted with kidney and bladder diseases to at once write them, and a trial box of these Pills will be sent free by return mail post-paid. Do it to-day.

A Ludicrous Experiment.

Holmes was one of the many eminent men who have attempted to solve the riddle of the universe. In his case the result was ludicrous. From the sublime thoughts that came to him while under the influence of chloroform he thought he might arrive at some solution. Placing himself in his arm-chair, with pen, ink and paper at hand, he inhaled the anaesthetic. As consciousness stole over him the nature of things seemed revealed. By a vigorous effort he knew not what, for before he had finished he fell back unconscious. When he recovered he turned with trembling anxiety to the sheet of paper, on which, written in scrawling characters, but quite legible, he found the awful revelation: "A strong smell of turpentine pervades the whole!"—London News.

An Accommodating Boy.

A Newark woman who lives in an apartment house changed her ice-man long ago, and the next day the youth who drove the team for the new man put the piece of ice on the dumb waiter in the basement to be hoisted up, she pulled away.

"Heave," she exclaimed, "that ice-man certainly gives good weight."

After much effort she got the dumb waiter up to the kitchen level. To her amazement, there was a small boy sitting upon the ice. With what little strength she had left she demanded:

"What in the world did you make me pull you up here for?"

"Why," replied the youngster, "I thought maybe the cake would be too heavy for you to lift, so I came up to help you off with it."—Lippincott's.

Colonial Holidays

THE open fireplace, the crackling logs, the roasting chestnuts, the jingle of sleighbells, the snow-mantled guests!

The festive board—the spotless linen—the quaint, old china, the family silver brought from its hiding place! The pride in that silver!

And now—your family silver? Is it the "Colonial" made in the historic old town of Newburyport, Massachusetts? If so, you have equal pride in yours.

This splendid pattern in Sterling Silver reflects all the country grace and dignity with which your great-grandfather led the cotillion or dispensed the hospitalities of the feast.

Are you prepared for your Holiday carving? We propose a bird set in the "Colonial" for your own use, or as an acceptable gift. Made in a complete table service.

INDIGESTION?

DYSPEPSIA?

The Judge's Little Joke.

The error of a clerk involved in a decidedly confusing situation the German gentleman referred to in a story in the New York Times.

On a jury day in the First district court a stolid looking German presented to the justice a certificate from the commissioner of jurors. After a rapid glance at the document the justice ordered the man to raise his right hand and administered the oath.

"Your name is Herman Kaufman?"

"Yes, your honor."

"This paper," continued the court, "requests me to excuse Herman Kaufman from jury duty on the ground that he is dead. Now, remember that you have sworn to tell the truth and think well before you answer. Are you dead?"

"No-o, your honor," was the bewildered reply. "I don't think I am."

"You claim that you are alive?"

"Y-e-s, your honor."

"That will do. Now take this paper back to the commissioner of jurors."

The man did so. When the commissioner examined the certificate it bore the following indorsement in the justice's handwriting:

"The deceased, appearing before me in open court, insists under oath that he is not dead. Please investigate and if his testimony be false have him indicted for perjury."

A Wedding Hint.

The tall girl smiled in some embarrassment.

"Haven't you any secondhand shoes?" she said to the shoe clerk.

"But, miss"—he remonstrated.

"No, no; you misunderstand," said she. "I don't mean to wear. I just mean old shoes, too worn for use, that customers have left with you. You see, there's a wedding up at our house tomorrow, and we want something to throw at the bride and bridegroom."

"I see," said the clerk.

He rummaged in a black hole and drew forth an armful of dilapidated footwear. The girl selected some threes, twos and ones.

"These will do. Thanks ever so much," she said, and so departed.

"Big footed people are always working that on us," said the clerk afterward. "That girl wears eights. She couldn't very well throw such mud-acorns at the bride, so she chose some little and dainty shoes here—ones and twos. Oh, yes, it's an old trick with the big footed."—Los Angeles Times.

Saracen's Head Tavern.

The Saracen's Head, Snow Hill, now closed, reached back to a respectable antiquity. In "Dick Tarlton's Jest" it is referred to as "the Saracen's Head without Newgate," and Stow calls it "a fair and large inn for receipt of travelers," which "hath to sign the Saracen's Head." Its pre-eminent interest, however, is naturally Dickensian, and the novelist has given a vivid description of the old inn as it was when Nicholas Nickleby and his uncle interviewed there the master of Dotheboys Hall. There are various accounts of the origin of the sign of the Saracen's Head. One is that it was set up as a compliment to the mother of Thomas a Becket, who was the daughter of a Saracen. In Selden's "Table Talk" we read, "When our countrymen came home from fighting with the Saracens . . . they pictured them with huge, big, terrible faces, as you still see the sign of the Saracen's Head is."—London Chronicle.

From the Kitchen.

Has it ever struck one what a number of terms belonging to cuisine are applied to man under different circumstances? Sometimes he is "basted," he "boils with rage," is "baked" with heat and "burns" with love or jealousy. He is often "cut up," "devoured" with a flame and "done brown." We "dress" his jacket for him. Sometimes he is "eaten up" with care, and occasionally he is "fried." We "cook" his "goose" for him, and often he makes a "goose" of himself. We make a "hash" of him, and sometimes he makes a hash of something else. He gets into "hot water" and sometimes into a "mess," is made into "mince meat" and is often in a "pickle." We are often asked to "toast" him, and he is frequently put into a "stew" or is in a "stew," no one knows why. A "soft" is "half baked," and one severely handled is well "peppered." A cheeky young imp is a "sauce box," and a rich father is made to "fork out."—Dundee Advertiser.

He Knew His Business.

Kind Hearted Maiden (fishing for a stray penny in her purse)—I suppose you poor blind people feel your misfortunes keenly?

Blind Mendicant—Yes, indeed. The Lord only knows how I miss the pleasure of being able to look into the beautiful faces of the handsome and lovely ladies who are kind enough to donate—

Kind Hearted Maiden (fishing out a shilling)—Here, poor fellow, take this. I'm sure you are deserving.—London Scraps.

Perhaps.

"Now, look here, Algernon," said a parent to his son sternly, "when I was your age I was at the head of my class."

"Ah," responded the lad, "perhaps teachers were easier to fool then than they are now!"

Severs.

"I wish I had a fortune, I'd sever paint another picture!" declared an artist to a brother of the brush.

"Well, there are lots of people who would give you one on that condition!"

The Similarity.

Why are some policemen like rain-bows? Because they appear after the storm is over.

THAT

ABSTRACT

Is something a real estate investor will never do without—it's his sole protection against a faulty title. Why not have us draw you up an abstract of your prospective investment so that you'll not be buying something "in the dark?" The cost is certainly nominal—and when compared with the amount involved looks ridiculous indeed to do without it.

Accurate, complete work.

She Can Eat Pie Now.

A lady recently visited a friend in Keene, N. H., whose husband was very delicate, and yet she noticed that he could eat all the pie he wanted. She began to wonder how it was that he could do it, when she had to give up this delicacy because of disagreeable after effects. She writes as follows:

"I found it was because the pies were made with Cottolene, and as I am a great lover of pie, I began using Cottolene, and have never had a bit of lard in the house since that time. I now enjoy my pie, as it does not give heart-burn as formerly."

Cottolene makes crisp, flaky, "digestible" pie-crust, that tastes good, and does good—lard does you harm.
